TSU Graduate Ranks 2nd in Electrical Engineering Board Exam

ith a grade of 92.25%, Renzie Aldritz Mempin Pingol, 25, of the TSU College of Engineering and Technology, placed 2nd in the April 2019 Registered Electrical Engineer licensure examination.

Pingol bested 2,548 other examinees, according to the Professional Regulatory Commission.

In an interview, Pingol said he stayed in Singapore together with his family when he was young, and in his school there, he was taught to "study smart" and not to "study hard."

By studying smart, he meant that he focused on his mistakes, making sure he would not commit them again.

This technique he said he shared with his classmates from whom he also learned a lot.

He said Electrical Engineering was his choice, a decision supported by his father.

TSU Supports CSC Program By Appointing 3 Values Restoration Officers

In support of the Civil Service Commission's Values Restoration Program (VRP), a "soft approach" to combatting corruption in government, Tarlac State University President Myrna Q. Mallari has named three employees of the university to serve as values restoration officers.

As values restoration officers, Ms. Gloria L. Prellejera, Mr. Gilbert G. Gonzales and Ms. Grace N. Rosete are tasked to "lead the discussion of a weekly value focus during flag raising ceremony," according to TSU Administrative Order No. 19, dated March 28, 2019.

Implemented by the Council for the Restoration of Filipino Values (CRFV), a CSC-accredited learning and development institution, the program urges government agencies to appoint at least two VROs who "shall lead the discussion of a common value every week after the flag ceremony using the CRFVauthored book Transforming the Nation Through Values and the CD with Powerpoint presentations containing the same."

The VROs, as stated in the CSC Announcement dated October 2, 2017, may come from "supervisory level and rank and file from (the government agency's) central, regional, provincial and field offices or units."

"Moreover," the announcement said, "the designated VRO shall coordinate all VRP matters in their agencies and attend the Trainer's Trainings and other seminars and meetings to be conducted by the CRFV."

President Mallari said "(e) very personnel of whatever rank or position must recognize and support the weekly action plan proposed by the VROs as a methodology to better enforce the observance of the values not only during the week of study but also the entire year until it becomes a norm, culture or habit."

Values Restoration Program Aims to Address Corruption in Government

Corruption in government and in the private sector is a major problem in Philippine society. To reduce, if not totally eliminate corruption, efforts have been made through various laws and programs.

These initiatives are enacted upon by the Civil Service Commission (CSC), an institution acting as the human resource manager in the public sector, including: report Service Delivery card survey, Excellence Program (SDEP). Citizen's Satisfaction Center Seal of Excellence, Contact Center ng Bayan (CCB), ARTA watch in line with the implementation of the antired tape act; and the implementation of policy on Statement of Assets, Liabilities, and Networth (SALN).

More recently, CSC passed Announcement No. 40, s. 2017, introducing the Values Restoration Program (VRP) of the Council for the Restoration of Filipino Values (CRFV), a CSC accredited learning and development institution. This program is a soft approach of the government's anti-corruption initiatives and aims to transform the nation through values restoration and development.

In support of this program, the Tarlac State University, through Administrative Order no. 19, s. 2019, dated March 28, 2019, designated three Values Restoration Officers. Armed with a CRFVprovided material – a book entitled Transforming the Nation through Values, these VROs are tasked to lead the discussion of a common value every week during the flag raising ceremony.

This program, as with all government anti-corruption initiatives, are beneficial in curbing the nation's state of corruption. As an employee or official from the government, it is necessary to project a persona integrated with the values befitting a public official. These individuals serve as role models for the citizens to follow as they also mirror the state of the agency they are affiliated with. As they are in constant state of interaction with citizens, the efficiency and attitude of the civil servants will reflect upon the people's confidence and faith in the country's governance.

The implementation of the VRP via its corresponding VROs is one step in achieving the goal of decreasing the incidence of corruption prevalent in the country. Eradicating corruption is a tedious process which requires commitment and diligence but, paraphrasing a famous American quote, one small step against corruption is a giant leap for the Filipino people.
